Preface

WHO'S WHO IN WESTERN CANADA is designed by the publishers to provide a record of the men and women who, in one capacity or another, are contributing to the building up of Western Canada. To this end its scope is comprehensive enough to include the politician and the pioneer, the railroader and the litterateur, the man of affairs and the farmer, the merchant and the professional man. These and many more play their part in a development which is at once the admiration and astonishment of civilization, and it is proper that there shall be some permanent record of their work and who and what they were.

In the brief account of their career in these pages, their relation is shown to the outstanding events of the history of Western Canada, and the book, therefore, has a value for the historian quite beyond its use as a current work of reference. This consideration has encouraged the publishers to include a number of portraits of persons dealt with in the biographical sketches, an innovation adding to the permanent value of the book.

The extent and diversity of the field covered, the difficulty of reaching some, and the reluctance of others to provide the necessary data, and the great care taken to secure accuracy, have combined to make the work of compilation a formidable undertaking. Some three thousand biographical sketches are included in the present edition, and wherever possible revised copy has been submitted for final correction. The publishers, however, are aware that where so large a number of names and dates are involved, the utmost care will not prevent all errors, and any necessary corrections will be gratefully received for incorporation in another issue, together with a number of biographical sketches received too late for inclusion in the present volume.

ARMSTRONG, Hon. William James.—(Retired), New Westminster B.C. Born Durham Co., Ontario, Oct. 31, 1826, son of Capt. William Armstrong, who emigrated from Co. Ca. van, Ireland, at close of eighteenth century, and settled on farm at Millbrook, Ont. Assisted his father on the farm till 1852, when the family left Ontario and went to California, where they settled in Grass Valley, and engaged with his father and brother in mining until 1854, when they came to British Columbia and took up their residence at Langley. In March, 1859, Mr. Armstrong built a house in New Westminster, then known as Queensborough, which had been selected by Col. Moody as the capital of the colony. This was the first house erected in the colony and Mr. Armstrong was the first citizen. He opened a general store and continued in business uninterruptedly till 1873. When the first municipal council was elected in 1860 he was chosen as one of that body and remained in the council continuously until 1873. In 1869 he was selected by the council as its president, and also in 1870. He took an active part in the bringing about of Confederation and after the consummation of the union was elected to represent the District of Westminster in the Provincial Legislature. In 1873 when the McCreight government was defeated and the De Cosmos government came into power, he joined the government as Minister of Finance and Agriculture, and retained this office until 1876, when his party was defeated. He continued an active worker on the opposition benches till 1879. During this session a deadlock occurred and the government was about to appeal to the country without having passed the estimates. Mr. Armstrong, seeing the effect this would have on the provincial credit, arranged a meeting of three representatives of each party and brought about an understanding whereby supplies were voted for the conduct of public business. In 1879, he was defeated as a candidate for New Westminster, but in 1881 was returned again with a large majority. A new ministry being formed at the end of that year by Hon. Robert Beaven, he became Provincial Secretary. In 1882, he was again returned but his party being in the minority he took his seat on the opposition benches. In 1883 the shrievalty of Westminster county fell vacant and he was appointed to that position. In 1867 he built a flour mill, the first in the Province, at New Westminster, and carried it on till 1871. In 1876 he established a saw mill and continued to conduct it till 1882. He has been connected with nearly all of the enterprises since 1860 which have tended to advance the Province, especially in the District of New Westminster. Educ. pub. schs., Middlesex Co., Ontonagon Co., Michigan. His father, Duncan McKellar, moved to the upper peninsula of Michigan with his family, 1855, where he became interested in prospecting and mining. In this profession he educated his four sons, who moved to the north shore of Lake Superior, known as Thunder Bay District, in 1864, and made the following discoveries: Thunder Bay Silver Mine, Enterprise Mine of Black Bay, Zenith Zinc Mine, Huronian Gold Mine, Antikokan Iron Mine, and many others; they built the first gold stamp mill on the Huronian property ever erected north of Lake Superior in Ontario. On account of the McKellar's familiarity with the country through their prospecting work, Donald McKellar, in the summer of 1870, was summoned by S. J. Dawson (who was in charge of the transportation of the military expedition commanded by Col. Wolseley, now Lord Wolseley) to take charge of and conduct the boats up the Mattawan River, which feat he accomplished successfully. Captain Young, 60th Rifles, having made a failure with the boats, saying it was impossible to navigate them up the river, and insisted on them being taken back by wagon road. After the military expedition, he was put in charge of the government stores at Prince Arthur's Landing winter of 1870-1871, with ten teams of horses and about forty men, who were kept employed gravelling the worst part of the road to Shewanowan Lake preparatory for future requirements. The following summer there was a great rush of immigration, and the road being just opened Mr. McKellar was put in charge of the section between Lac De Mille Lac and Rainy Lake, a distance of one hundred miles through the wilds, looking after the interests of and forwarding the emigrants. This was the beginning of the first immigration into the Canadian Northwest. Life member of McKellar Hospital Board; Councillor, Fort William, Ont., for several terms.
